A true copy of Warrant—Attest:

ELIZABETH I. PRIESTLEY,
ELEANOR J. MARVIN,
EUGENE W. MORRILL,

School Board.

Report of the School Board

The School Board respectfully submits the annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1950:

The School Board has met twice monthly except during the months of July and August. Our Superintendent, Mr. Gillmore, has been present at all but two of these meetings. Notes on the meetings have been kept.

An increase in two Board member's salary (as listed in the proposed budget) was made to be in proportion with the Chairman's salary.

The increase in salaries of the teachers and Superintendent has been made to meet minimum State standards.

The increase in tuition and transportation was beyond our control. Other increases are due to rising prices in supplies, textbooks, etc.

The item, "New Equipment," in the Budget has been made for new desks. At present there are twenty-two pupils in the three upper grades. In September, 1951, it is anticipated that thirty-two pupils will enroll in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. During 1950 five movable desks were purchased to replace some of the fourth and fifth grade units which were far too small.

To help eliminate glare two blackboards upstairs have been painted green. Also two overhead lights were replaced after having been removed several years ago.

A dangerous open switch was replaced with a closed one, and repairs were made on the furnace blower.

As time goes on it is evident that a two hundred and twenty-one year old school house is not adequate for modern education which is endeavored to be taught in New Castle today.

In comparison with the majority of schools in New Hampshire, our school falls very low. There is no flexibility or adequate space in the class rooms, making it exceedingly hard for the teachers to instruct as they have been taught to do.

There is no uniformity of light or ventilation. It is inadequately heated. On cold days the temperature falls as low as 60 degrees at desk level and 34 degrees at floor level on the first floor where the first, second, and third grades sit, making it necessary for them to wear boots in class. The temperature in the girls' toilet at seat level has been recorded at 35 degrees.

The fire dangers are so numerous all cannot be mentioned. One of the greatest is having the fire escape directly over and beside the oil fired hot air furnace.

The School Board has been informed by authority that it will cost the District no more to build a new school than to carry on the Capital Reserve Fund.

We cordially invite members of the School District to visit the school.

ELIZABETH I. PRIESTLEY,
ELEANOR J. MARVIN,
EUGENE W. MORRILL,

School Board.

Report of Superintendent of Schools

To the School Board of New Castle:

I herewith submit to you my twenty-first report as Superintendent of your schools. The statistical report for the past completed school year will be included and also the pupil enrollment in our local school as well as a list of tuition pupils attending Portsmouth for the current year.

The present year began Wednesday, September 6, 1950, with an enrollment of 44. This compares with last year's figure of 37. There are at the time of this report, 25 New Castle children attending the Portsmouth schools, 8 of whom are in grades seven and eight.

The New Castle teachers coordinate their work with that of the corresponding Portsmouth teachers. This leads to a uniformity of context and method between the two systems and results in continuous progress of our pupils throughout the twelve grade. In line with modern school progress, as well as paralleling Portsmouth's plan, our school is now giving unified courses in History and Geography, under the title Social Studies. It is felt that History and Geography are so closely interlinked they are now more purposefully studied together. The location of cities and towns controls much of the industry of their citizens which in turn has much to do with the history of the towns. To attempt to keep the two as separate subjects does not seem true to facts.

The new books used by the upper grades are built around the inter-dependence of these two subjects. We believe children will secure a clearer understanding of their work by this means.

It may be that before this report is published,

New Castle will have obtained title to part of the Fort Constitution property. I hope so, for it will do much to improve our playground problem. It is our plan to use the Fort Constitution building as a physical education area. Educational practice now recommends that children work together on larger projects. These are impossible under present conditions, but could well be carried on with the additional space. Through physical education and project work in the standard school subjects, children acquire the all important ability to live with their fellows, to work with them and play with them.

However, the satisfactory answer to the needs of the children of New Castle is a new school building. Today's elementary school is concerned not only with the acquisition of facts and skills but also with the development of the whole pupil to the maximum of his capabilities. The child should develop abilities mentally, socially, physically, emotionally and morally. The modern school should have a workshop atmosphere. The "lessons" should be work activities. To do this, children should work together in groups on definite projects. Sometimes two or three will work in a group, sometimes eight or ten and sometimes the whole school. This demands work stations apart from the entire class. Library work tables are a necessity. A work corner where children may create pictures, objects or models from ideas which they have received as a result of their school work is now considered an essential of a modern school building.

These activities require more room than is now available. It is now recommended that 900-1000 square feet are required for elementary school rooms. Our present schools measure approximately 535 square feet and 580 square feet. There is little space in either room for a group work.

The new school recognizes the fact that there are natural differences which must be taken into account and that each child should be sufficiently challenged to exert real effort in his work and thereby secure real satisfaction in achievement.

The responsibility of the schools for establishing good health habits in its pupils is recognized. Health is all important. We now lack space for recognized physical training. The school is the child's life. It should enter all his activities. Children should feel free to use the building for their social gatherings in school time or out of school time.

The time is near when New Castle should have three home rooms for its children with two grades for each teacher. By this plan, the organization of classes is more efficient, since there would be less spread of the teacher's work. Individual differences may be adjusted more accurately, and social problems more easily remedied. The troubles of fourth grade pupils for example, are of a different nature from those of the sixth grade. It is better that pupils of like ages should be together.

No school is complete without an activity room. Projects too large for the class room would be constructed here. Pupil-made maps, models, decorations, historical scenes and plans are a part of modern education and would be housed in such a room. This room, if properly used, helps each pupil to adjust himself socially to his fellows. It is in these informal activities that children are less inhibited and therefore best develop the talents inherent in each child.

A one story building has many advantages from the point of view of safety, administration and appearance. School houses constructed of sound absorbent materials tend toward a quieter and more workman-like atmosphere. In such a building, the child is less disturbed by the activities of the others. Since it is reasonable to assume that New Castle will not for some time need one room for each grade, this is an important consideration. Modern school buildings are being constructed with light finish and non-glare surfaces. The floors finished in light tile not only add to the attractiveness of the school, but actually help in the lighting factor. Colored chalk boards help reflect light which the black boards absorb.

Building costs seem to be pretty well stabilized. Architects tell us there is nothing to be gained by delaying action. Schools are now constructed on a more utilitarian basis than previously and all unnecessary construction is eliminated. Most rooms are put to multiple use.

The Parent-Teacher Association is doing a valuable work in bringing to the parents, and the people as a whole, the needs of the schools of today. Our local group is among the leaders in this charge, one of its members being on the State Governing Board. With its whole-hearted support, New Castle is advancing toward the education of the whole child—the objective of all modern schools.

By vote of the New Hampshire Legislature, state aid for education was reduced from two million dollars to $400,000. This seriously affected many districts, but New Castle was not one so affected. Our State Aid for the present year is $1,189,24, an increase over the previous year. The amount which will be available for New Castle next year depends upon the Legislature of 1951. Since a new basis for these grants is to be determined, we have no sure guide upon which to base our finances. It would seem best to leave out of our budget any estimate of an item so uncertain.

Under the guidance of the School Board, the New Castle School will continue to serve its pupils to the best of its ability. Our children do well in the schools which they later attend. The formal subjects are taught by two capable teachers. However, we do need a new building with all the added benefits for our children.

Respectfully submitted,

ROY W. GILLMORE,

January 25, 1951.

Superintendent of Schools.
